Voting deadline is Saturday

This Saturday (Oct. 4) is the deadline for registering to vote in the upcoming presidential election, according to Emma Lemon, county registrar.

The Registrar's Office, located within the office of the Commissioner of Revenue at the county courthouse, will be open today (Thursday) and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. for eligible persons who wish to register to vote.

To be eligible to vote a person must be 18 years old before the election Nov. 4, must be a resident of Virginia and must have resided in the precinct in which he will cast his vote for at least 30 days prior to the election.

Lemon notes that a person who is now 17 but will have his or her eighteenth birthday before Nov. 4 may still register to vote in the election.

The election Nov. 4 will determine the presidency for the next four years. There will be no county or state contests on the ballot, according to Lemon.

OCTOBER HAS BEEN DECLARED "Appomattox County Rescue Squad Month" by (from left) Ronnie Spiggle, mayor of Appomattox; Dr. S. R. Lawson, chairman of the county board of supervisors; and Jim Webb, mayor of the town of Pamplin. The government officials met last week to sign a proclamation citing the rescue squad's invaluable service to the community and the need for generous donations from the public to support the all-volunteer squad (Photo by Bill Sherrod).

Rescue squad launches drive

Ronnie Spiggle, Mayor of the Town of Appomattox, Jim Webb, Mayor of the Town of Pamplin, and the Appomattox County Board of Supervisors have proclaimed the month of October as "Appomattox County Rescue Squad Month."

In issuing the proclamation these representatives said that they were pleased to do this on behalf of the volunteer members of the Appomattox County Rescue Squad for the outstanding work they do and for the service they render the citizens of the county.

The Annual Fund Drive will officially begin this weekend with squad members ready to accept contributions for operating expenses and for equipment needed throughout the year.

The goal of $15,700, an increase of only $700.00 over that of last year, has been set and the slogan remains "You Help Us - We'll Help You".

Members of the local rescue squad realize that expenses are still going up and the cost of living is increasing steadily. They plan to do all in their power to keep operating costs at a minimum and still provide maximum service to the citizens of this county. If later in the year they find that additional funds will be needed then, at that time they will again ask the people for the funds they feel they will need to operate efficiently for the remaining part of the year.

Without citizens' generous contributions, the three ambulances now manned by members of this volunteer organization could not be in operation.

We can all be proud that the Appomattox County Rescue Squad is operated solely by the public's contributions. They do not ask for nor receive any funds from state or federal agencies. By operating independently we can truly call the Appomattox County Rescue Squad "Our Rescue Squad".

A canvass in the same manner that has been used for the past seven years will again be used this year. Spot locations will be set up throughout the county on Friday night, October 3, and on Saturday, October 4, for the convenience of citizens who wish to make donations.

On Friday night from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. members will be stationed at Wilburn's Super Market and at Triangle Plaza Shopping Center.

On Saturday from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. members will again be at the two above locations to accept donations. Individuals may also donate Saturday at Harvey's Market or Williams Store in Pamplin, at Evans Store in Evergreen, at the Village Market in Vera, at the Oakville Farmers Supply across from the old Oakville School in Oakville, or at Reynold's Store in Red House. Norman Campbell will be accepting donations at Campbell's Store at Promise Land.

County citizens are asked to stop by one of these locations Friday or Saturday and make their contributions to this worthy organization. You may donate to any member of the rescue squad or you may mail your contribution to Appomattox County Rescue Squad, Fund Drive, P. O. Box 57, Appomattox, Va. 24522.

The 1980-81 Fund Drive is headed by Ray Noble, who is serving as Finance Chairman. Beek Hudson is Publicity Chairman.

The people of Appomattox County have expressed confidence in the Appomattox County Resce Squad in past years through generous contributions and members of the squad feel that Appomattox citizens deserve the best and most efficient equipment and communications and the best trained personnel possible.

With continued cooperation and support, this fund drive will be the success that it has been in past years and these dedicated volunteers can continue to serve the people of this county to the best of their ability.

School board to meet

A final vote on a proposed student-attendance policy and a report from representatives of an elementary parent-teacher association head the agenda of the county school board, which meets next Wednesday (Oct. 8) at 5 p.m. in the school board office.

Proposed changes in the school calendar for the 1980-81 year will also be considered by the board members, according to the meeting agenda, which was posted early this week.

The board members will also receive a report on a settlement with an insurance company regarding a wrecked school bus and the lease of a new bus, according to the posted agenda.

With these items will be the usual agenda items, such as regular monthly reports and a review of finances.

In football contest

Mike Williams tops field

Mike Williams of Appomattox missed only one of 23 predictions in last week's Times-Virginian Football Contest to win out over 75 competitors in the weekly event.

Curtis T. Mayberry, Sr., who won the previous week's competition, missed accurately predicting only three of the 23 games to take second place in this week's contest.

Williams missed predicting the outcome of the LSU-Rice game, which Rice won. In the other games in the contest, however, he was accurate, including the two most frequently missed games, South Carolina Michigan (which South Carolina won) and N.C. State-Wake Forest, which Wake Forest won.

Like Williams, Mayberry missed predicting the outcome of the LSU-Rice game, and he also missed on the South Carolina-Michigan game and the N.C. State-Wake Forest game.

Ten contestants were close in last week's contest, missing only four of the 23 games listed on the contest page. They were Margaret Wilson, Mike George, Gloria Ferguson, Ronnie Coleman, Dan G. Coleman, Peggy Marshall, Steve Marshall, Plicky Williams, and Lee Drinkard, all of Appomattox, and Robert Nixon, of Lynchburg.

The popular football contest continues this week, with more games to exercise the crystal balls of local football fans. Details and rules of the contest can be found on the football contest page inside this week's Times-Virginian.

Elderly's plight tough in U.S.

Editor's Note: The following story is the first in a three-part series dealing with the Central Virginia Commission on Aging. The series will focus on the problems confronting elderly people, programs offered by CVCA to help those problems, and challenges for the future of CVCA and related programs.
By BILL SHERROD

In most Oriental countries, elderly persons are considered the primary source of wisdom for developing younger generations. An American cliche', "The best teacher is experience, is an intergral part of many oriental philosophies.

In most areas of the United States, however, the emphasis today is on the "younger generation," and, tragically, Americans miss out on the source of wisdom which the Orientals hold so dear.

From a practical perspective, however, there is an even more tragic aspect to the United States' emphasis on the "younger generation." many American citizens - indeed, a growing percentage of the U. S. population - are neglected and live the last years of their lives in lonely isolation.

With a growing emphasis on population control in the United States, it is only natural that the percentage of older Americans has increased since the turn of the century. According to the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, only 3.1 percent of the total U.S. population was comprised of persons age 65 and up in 1900. By 1977, that figure had grown to 10.9 percent of the population. In numbers, that translates to almost 23.5 million senior citizens. And, the fedeal government estimates that by the year 2000 there will be almost 32 million senior citizens in this country, close to 13 percent of the total population.

Recognizing the need to accomodate older Americans in a youth-oriented, ever-changing society, the federal government in 1974 passed the Older Americans Act, which paved the way for state and local agencies such as the Central Virginia Commission on Aging.

CVCA was formed in 1974 following enactment of the Older Americans Act.

One of 22 such agencies throughout the state of Virginia, the CVCA is charged with planning, administering, and executing programs and services for elderly persons in its jurisdiction. The CVCA's jurisdiction is that of the Central Virginia Planning District, including the counties of Appomattox, Amherst, Bedford, Campbell, and the cities of Lynchburg and Bedford.

The CVCA is governed by an 18-member board of directors, with representatives from each of the jurisdictions within the district.

Appomattox County is represented by Mrs. Florence Trent, Mrs. C. V. Wingfield, and Horace W. Coleman, Jr.

According to Coleman, persons served by the commission are age 60 and up. Several methods are used to identify and set priorities for senior citizen needs and services. Input from the senior citizens themselves, their families, and the community in general is used in deciding which programs to pursue in terms of federal and state funding, for example. In addition, the suggestions of a professional service staff are considered when planning the year's budget or contemplating a new program, according to Coleman.

The CVCA conducts surveys and public hearings to get input from the public for certain programs, according to Coleman, and in the years since the CVCA was founded, the number of programs and services offered have grown tremendously.

For example, the budget for CVCA's operations in 1975-76, its first year of operation, was $56,000.

The budget for fiscal 1980, which just ended, was $1,089,425. The agency has grown tremendously since it was founded, and its growth has been marked by an increase in the number of services and programs offered for senior citizens.

Next week, those programs and services will be examined in detail in part two of the series.

Town has experience

By FRANCES H. PAULETTE

Five employees of the town of Appomattox have a combined total of 75 years of service in various positions, according to Mayor Ronnie Spiggle.

Harold Nash, superintendent of Public Works has a total of 27 years service. Mrs. Bobbie Harvey Mullins, office manager and clerk to the Appomattox town council, has a total of 15 years in her position. William R. McDilda, maintenance worker, has 12 years. Charles Edward Franklin, truck driver and maintenance worker, has 11 years. James Robert Ford, Jr., town Police Chief, has a total of ten years service with the town.

Nash, who began working for the town of Appomattox in February of 1953, remembers there were only three workers in addition to the town manager at the time he was hired. Today, the town of Appomattox employs 12 workers on a regular basis.

In 1953 the town of Appomattox had a total of 316 water customers. Today, approximately 650 customers use water from the town system.

The water system has been expanded with the addition of a milliop gallon storage tank; trunk lines have been completed. The tank will go into service at the end of November of this year," state Nash.

"When I first came to work for the town," Nash continued, "there were 650 acres in the town of Appomattox; today there are approximately 800 acres. I remember too, everything had to be done the hard way, with pick and shovel; today, thank goodness, we have more modern equipment."

In addition to the five with 75 years of service, other town workers include: William Britton, town manager; Judy Volturo, office worker. Richard Simpson, town police, Lynn Allen Smith, town police, Johnny Harris, assistant superintendent; Bobby Miller and James Pennix, maintenance workers.

Armed with a new typewriter ribbon and facing a new month, let's jog through the note pad. A hearty welcome to October, a choice month by any standard. Cooler weather sets up football in interest ratings, although some will observe, "if October comes, can Nov. 4 be far behind?"

The ACHS Raiders have a home game this week against Altavista, and you are invited. Old rivals. Hope we win. The Washington Redskins had a fall case of spring fever and lost, but good old Slippery Rock stood high in the winner's circle. The season is young and there are lots of good games ahead.

Nature note: from My Den Window I see a squirrel in my garden. Should I hang a sign saying that The Nut is inside? And yesterday morning a bird checked my window side feeder and seemed to be lining up fall prospects. Will make a note to put small bird seed on the shopping list. Meanwhile hang a sign reading Network difficulty, don't change your dial.

Miss Karen Fratrick of Appomattox, has a leading role in a George Bernard Shaw drama being presented this week at Dillard Auditorium, Lynch b u r g College. Appomattox is proud of its talented young people.

I have never been contacted by any of the polltaking organizations as to my opinion on anything. Just as well. But Saturday, I had such a call. An out-of-state phone call and I was asked three questions. Did I have a car? Did I have an electrical coffeemaker? Did I own a dog? Wow. Now I will sit back and wait for Gallop, Roper or Harris.

Notepad item: Christmas comes on a Thursday this year. Does that mean a longer-than-usual weekend holiday?

A gift from a friend contained a neat printed card by an unknown author. It read: "This is the beginning of a new day. I can waste it or use it for good. What I do today is important, because I am exchanging a day of my life for it. When tomorrow comes, this day will be gone forever, leaving in its place something that I have traded for it, I want it to be gain, not loss; good, not evil; success, not failure; in order that I shall not regret the price I paid for today."

Made a stab at trying to re-organize and clean up My Den and as usual found very little to throw away but lots and lots of pictures and clippings and souvenirs. A picture of the grave of Wilmer McLean, Christ Church Cemetery, Alexandria; two ticket stubs from a national political convention. Part of a column Mother Brightleaf used to write for this newspaper, called "News Around Town." A pair of shoe laces. An old and empty wallet. A picture of me with the grandson of Gen. George A. Armstrong Custer. A picture of a roadsign saying "You Are Leaving New Mexico." And many more and my comment is that it is nice to have a cleanup even if you do not throw away anything.

Thanks for reading and seeya around.

75 years' experience
